Revival of RFC Sought to Avert Possible Crash

Bridges Expresses Confidence Economy Will Improve Soon

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Bridges (R-NH) said today he will lay before President Eisenhower Tuesday a proposal for revival of the Reconstruction Finance Corp. on a standby basis.

Bridges, who heads the Senate Republican Policy Committee, expressed confidence the economy will turn upwards soon. But he added in an interview that the upturn might be threatened if some big business enterprise were to crash financially. He mentioned railroads specifically.

"We have established almost every kind of setup needed to step in and help the economy except one to take care of a threatened crash of a big business, which could have a terrific psychological impact," Bridges said.

"We have provided for small business, we are stepping up public works to help provide jobs and we are providing for the economies of other nations through mutual security.

"I think we should revive the RFC on a standby basis and have it ready for action if it is needed. It saved many situations in the past and it could do so again if it became necessary."

The RFC officially went out of business June 30 last year, although its lending activities were halted Sept. 28, 1953. It was established in January 1932 during the major depression. From then until it died, it loaned more than 50 billion dollars to banks, railroads, factories and most other kinds of American business.

Bridges' proposal topped a series of weekend moves designed to bolster an economy which many members of Congress were saying was fundamentally strong but which needed a stimulus.

Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson (D-Tex), who has been active in pushing through the Senate a series of antirecession measures, told reporters he thinks things are looking up somewhat.

"I have a great deal more confidence in the economic outlook

OK of U.S. Farm Bill Expected

Would Freeze Price Supports at '57 Level

WASHINGTON (AP)—The House Agriculture Committee, operating under speed-up orders, was expected to approve today a Senate-passed resolution which would freeze farm price supports at last year's level.

House leaders brushed off the threat of a presidential veto to push for completion of preliminaries in time for a final House vote on the resolution before the end of the week.

Despite farm bloc differences over the proposal, the resolution was expected to pass the House by a substantial margin and go to President Eisenhower by Thursday or Friday.

Its fate at the White House was uncertain.

Secretary of Agriculture Benson told newsmen last week he would recommend the veto of any price support freeze. His assertion was backed up by some GOP House members who oppose the proposal as undesirable "stop-gap" legislation.

By holding the level of government farm aid at 1957 figures, the bill would cancel out Benson's plans to drop dairy price supports April 1 to the legal minimum and to move in the direction of further lowering of basic crop supports.

But the resolution was viewed as a symbol of defiance to Benson by Democrats and a bloc of rebellious Midwestern Republicans who have been gunning unsuccessfully for Benson's ouster.

Communists Return American Jet Pilot

PANMUNJIM, Korea (AP)—The Communists today handed back a U.S. jet pilot shot down over the Red side of the Korean truce line.

Capt. Leon Pfeiffer of Kenosha, Wis., appeared nervous and tense but in good health as he spoke at a brief news conference.

"I am happy to be back," he said, smiling weakly. "It is a wonderful feeling. I am very tired."

Pfeiffer parachuted March 6 after his Sabre Jet was hit by Red ground fire.

He was not hurt and are returned to U. N. control at a meeting of the Military Armistice Commission. Air Force security officers took him to Seoul to question him about his experiences.

Pfeiffer's plane veered over the truce line during maneuvers with the South Korean army on the U. N. side of the demilitarized zone. A Sabre Jet flying with Pfeiffer escaped. The U. N. Command acknowledged that both planes had violated North Korean air unintentionally, but it accused the Reds of making "an unnecessary armed attack."

Other Groups Show Signs of Joining Rebels

SINGAPORE (AP)—The fall of North Sumatra's key port, Medan, to a rebellious army garrison touched off speculation today that North Celebes and other island sectors soon would join the spreading war against President Sukarno's regime.

The central government confirmed rebel reports that some 2,000 troops under U.S.-trained Maj. Boyke Nainn Golan had seized the city of 300,000 — Sumatra's largest — Sunday in the second major development since the rebellion in the Outer Islands turned into a civil war nearly two weeks ago.

Obviously alarmed over the turn of events, Sukarno ordered reinforcements dispatched to the Medan area.

In North Celebes, in east Indonesia, the rebel commander, Lt. Col. Ventje Sumal, was expected to launch an offensive soon. There also were indications the strongly anti-Communist garrison in West Java might join the spreading revolt.

Neutral South Sumatra also showed signs of swinging over to the rebels. A broadcast from the capital of Palembang denounced the government's attack on Central Sumatra, and the South Sumatran commander, Lt. Col. Barlian, held long conferences with his staff on the situation. And in a speech urged negotiations "to halt further destruction."

Spacemen May Not Have to Breathe, Eat Or Drink While Making Flights

CHICAGO (AP)—An Army research official said today that space medicine pioneers are "working toward" development of a substance that will make breathing, eating and drinking unnecessary on space flights or for surviving on other planets.

James B. Edson, assistant to the Army director of research and development, forecast that the "normal rate of engineering development progress" will make possible landings on the moon and Mars and flights to faraway stars within 10 to 15 years.

Any unpredictable creative breakthroughs, he said, would tend to shorten the time schedule.

Writing in the Bulletin of the Atomic Scientists, he said the first manned expedition to the moon

Patrol Probes 7 Road Mishaps

Charges Are Filed Against 7 Drivers

Seven persons were arrested following seven minor auto mishaps on district roads Saturday and Sunday, state highway patrolmen reported.

Donald L. Phillips, 18, of RD 4, Salem was cited for reckless operation after he lost control of his car, which hit a tree and overturned on Rt. 45, one mile north of Salem, Saturday at 8 p.m.

Gilbert Irvine, 23, of Glen Morgan, W. Va., was cited for reckless operation and crossing a yellow line after his car struck the rear of an auto operated by William C. Windle, 18, of RD 2, Salem, on Rt. 30, five and one-half miles east of Minerva, Saturday at 8:30 p.m.

Three-Car Collision

A three-car collision occurred on Rt. 30, four miles north of East Liverpool, at 3:15 p.m. Saturday.

Patrolmen said an auto driven by Carl E. Mays, 25, of East Liverpool struck the rear of a car driven by Cyrus C. Tullis, 54, of East Liverpool impelling it into the rear of a vehicle operated by Stephen P. Shlanto, 47, of Weirton, W. Va.

Mays was arrested for reckless operation.

Robert Krieter, 42, of Youngstown, was cited for reckless operation after his auto went out of control and overturned on the Georgetown Road one mile south of Salem Sunday at 12:30 a.m.

Patrolmen Cite Driver

John Rousher, 18, of 982 N. Union Ave. was arrested for reckless operation after his car struck the rear of a vehicle driven by Anna R. Lozier, 55, of RD 4, Salem on Rt. 62, just north of the city, Saturday at 11 p.m., patrolmen said.

George Moore To Go Before House Probers

Members Disagree On How Far to Delve Into Colonel's Affairs

WASHINGTON (AP)—Col. George Gordon Moore, a brother-in-law of Mrs. Mamie Eisenhower, goes before a House subcommittee today amid disagreement among its members over how deeply his affairs should be probed.

Moore volunteered earlier this month to repeat under oath his denial of allegations that he played a key role in the Federal Communications Commission's award of a valuable TV license in Miami to a subsidiary of National Airlines.

The subcommittee has been investigating charges of influence on behalf of various applicants for TV Channel 10. A federal grand jury also is looking into the matter, and the FCC has moved to reconsider its grant.

In a letter to Subcommittee Chairman Harris (D-Ark), Moore acknowledged a social acquaintance with G. T. Baker, National Airlines president. But he said allegations that he engineered the award to the National Airlines subsidiary had "no basis whatever in fact." He also said he has "no interest, financial or otherwise, in that or any other application" before the FCC.

Moore's denial came after A. Frank Katzentine, a Miami Beach radio station operator who lost his bid for Channel 10, testified a friend told him Moore arranged the grant to National. But last Thursday Alfred Barton, the friend, denied giving Katzentine such information. He said Katzentine misinterpreted a telephone conversation.

There also has been testimony that Moore was associated with two National Airlines directors in a Dominican Republic shipyard venture in which funds allegedly were furnished by dictator Rafael Trujillo. The two directors were named as George W. Gibbs Jr., Jacksonville, Fla., and John W. Cross of Washington—not the John Cross recently nominated to the FCC.

During the weekend, Harris and Rep. Joseph P. O'Hara of Minnesota, senior Republican on the investigating subcommittee, said they were against questioning Moore on this Dominican venture unless it relates to the Channel 10 case. Several committee informants said investigators had not established a connection between the two matters.

3 Juveniles' Driving Licenses Suspended

LISBON — Traffic court hearings at the courthouse last week resulted in the suspension of the driving permits of three juvenile motorists.

Robert Sommers, 17, of Wells-ville was fined $25, and his license was suspended for 60 days for driving while intoxicated.

The license of Daniel A. Swindell, 17, of Alliance RD 5 was suspended for 60 days for speeding and that of Jerry Charles Dearth, 16, of Beloit, RD 1, was suspended for 30 days for failure to yield the right of way.

Man Stands by Wife Who Smothered Son

NAHA, Okinawa (AP)—A young American father stood by his wife today after she admitted smothering their infant son, burying his body in the garden and trying to make it appear the child had been kidnapped.

"My wife is a sick woman. I want everyone to know I don't want any slanders against her," Terrence D. Hitt, a civilian technician from Plymouth, Mich., told newsmen. His 26-year-old wife is under observation in the U.S. Army hospital here.

Hitt, 28, made radio and television appeals for the return of his son Brady Dean after his wife reported the 6-week-old baby missing Wednesday. She was visiting a neighbor, and Hitt was bowling.

After attending a party at a neighbor's Saturday night, Mrs. Hitt told her husband of having a nightmare in which she dreamed she had killed the child. She described the burial spot, and military police subsequently dug up the body.

Jewish Centers in Miami, Nashville Hit

Police Examining Blasts' Wreckage

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Dynamite explosions damaged Jewish centers in Miami and Nashville, Tenn., Sunday.

Police were examining the wreckage for clues to the identity of the terrorists.

An anonymous telephone caller linked the Tennessee incident to school integration and threatened that a federal judge "would be shot down in cold blood."

The Miami blast came at 2:20 a.m. doing at least $30,000 worth of damage to the school-recreation annex of Temple Beth El, located in the southwest section of the city. Doors were blown out, a hole torn in a concrete wall and a kitchen ceiling, the roof lifted and walls shifted on the foundation.

The Nashville explosion, shortly after 8 p.m., smashed the front doors of the Jewish community center. It ripped down the ceiling of the reception hall and broke panes of glass. Damage was estimated at $6,000.

There were no injuries in either dynamiting.

Almost as soon as the roar of the explosion died at Nashville, Rabbi William B. Silverman of the Jewish temple there got a telephone call warning, "The temple is going to be next." The caller also told the rabbi Federal Judge William E. Miller "would be shot down in cold blood."

Miller last fall ordered Negro first-graders admitted to some Nashville schools. Their admission was followed by a blast which wrecked Hattie Cotton School there.

Police are guarding the judge's home and the temple.

It was the first such incident at Miami since a wave of terrorism

Ike Announces Navy's 'Moon' Circling Earth

Fired In One of Most Perfect Launchings Seen By U.S. Experts

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)—The Navy's Vanguard rocket hurled the second U. S. satellite into orbit around the earth today.

With its back to the wall after two highly publicized failures, the Navy launched the Vanguard today on one of the most perfect flights ever seen at the nation's missile test center.

Belching fire and smoke, the slender gray-green rocket left its launching pad at 7:16 a.m. (EST).

Two hours and 23 minutes later, President Eisenhower told the world the trouble-plagued Vanguard was in orbit.

His announcement that the Vanguard 3 1/2-pound "moon" was circling the earth with the Army's Explorer and Russia's Sputnik II touched off a celebration in Navy circles here and among personnel of the Martin Co., which built the rocket.

With a launching to the east on an equatorial orbit, the Vanguard satellite would have an inclination to about the latitude of about 35 degrees.

May Pass Over Raleigh

This mean it would swing as far south as the southern tip of Africa and about as far north as Raleigh, N. C.

It was expected to follow an elliptical course ranging between the altitudes of 300 and 1,500 miles, and to circle the earth every 90 to 10 minutes.

If Sputnik II, with its dead dog passenger, dives to oblivion in the near future as expected, the U. S. will have the only satellites in space.

The Army launched Explorer with the Jupiter C missile here Jan. 31.

In sharp contrast to previous Vanguard countdowns, today's preparation of the rocket went off perfectly.

There was only one hold and it was due to trouble in a down-range tracking station, not because of any malfunction in the rocket itself.

The firing originally was scheduled for 7 a.m. sharp. It was just 16 minutes off this pinpoint schedule when it blasted into a clear blue Florida sky.

So smoothly did the rocket make its way into space, observers here were certain long before the President made it official that the Vanguard had done its job beautifully.

Separated Successfully

Test-range instruments indicated that the rocket's three stages and the "moon" in its nose separated successfully, Navy Cmdr. Vincent Thoma told reporters in Washington.

John P. Hagen, director of the Vanguard project, flashed a broad grin and sighed. After hearing a

Oppose Milk Price Support Cut

Ohio Farmers to Lodge Protest With Benson

WASHINGTON (AP)—Fifty Ohio Farm Bureau delegates come to Washington today to tell their congressmen and Agriculture Secretary Benson what they want in the way of new farm laws.

The trip—an annual affair—was more notable than usual in two respects:

1. There is an economic recession.

2. The usually pro-Benson Ohio Farm Bureau is taking exception to a major point in Benson's plans—his intention to cut the support price on milk effective April 1.

In a preview of the trip, H. D. Heckathorn of Forest, Ohio, president of the Farm Bureau, wrote in the current issue of Ohio Farm Bureau news:

"We plan to talk with these people (Benson and Ohio congressmen) about the present unsatisfactory farm situation. Now that the whole economy has turned downward, there is a conditions."

"Farmers have been at a disadvantage for many years and our parity level (price comparison with non-farm products) is still only 82 per cent."

"I hope that it will be possible for farmers to achieve parity with industry and labor in the future."

The Ohio farmers will say specifically what they want Washington to do about their problems when they get here, but advance reports indicate they have two main points.

One is that they want the current price support formula for basic commodities such as wheat and corn scrapped in favor of a formula of their own.

As explained by an American Farm Bureau spokesman, this proposed formula would be based on averages of prices in the immediate past.

Existing law hooks price supports to a comparison between farm and market prices as they were in 1910-14, he said.

The other important proposal by the Ohio Farm Bureau is opposition to Benson's plan to cut manufacturer's milk support prices from about $3.25 to about $3 a hundredweight.

Benson contends—and he has stirred up considerable opposition among dairy congressmen in both parties on this—that he needs to reduce the price to cut down on spring milk surpluses.

But the board of trustees of the Ohio Farm Bureau say this action would cost many Ohio dairy farmers a lot of money.

The trustees said in a statement: "It is our judgment that the lowering of price supports on milk products at this time will not be beneficial to producers."

"Therefore we respectfully request that the secretary of agriculture continue price supports on dairy products at 83 per cent of parity (the existing price)."

The Ohio farmers will be here three days.

During that time they will visit congressmen, Benson, and hear talks by Sens. Bricker (R-Ohio), Lausche (D-Ohio), Aiken (R-Vt.) and Kennedy (D-Mass.).

Vice President Nixon will address the farmers on Wednesday, shortly before they return home.

Dayton Jail Fracas Subdued by Officers

DAYTON, Ohio (AP)—Two prisoners jumped a jailer at the Montgomery County jail today but were quickly subdued while officers armed with riot guns surrounded the building.

Jailer Tom Blakeman told a reporter he was supervising delivery of breakfast food to prisoners on the first floor of the jail when one prisoner hit him over the head with a sock filled with soap.

The other prisoner, in a separate cell, then threatened Blakeman with a fake pistol he had carved from soap and covered with black paper.

As Blakeman struggled against both men, two unidentified trusties helped him subdue one prisoner, Eric Whitacre, 33. He was locked in a security cell in the jail office.

Meanwhile, another jailer, Leonard Crowliss, had come to help

Both prisoners were known in Dayton as the "black party" robbers because police said they used the parties to cover their face in the Jan. 17 robbery of a Dayton cafe.

Ohio's Highways Claim 8 Victims

Baby Accidentally Hangs Self on Bed

By The Associated Press
Ohio's highways, snow-covered in many instances, claimed eight victims over the weekend. Three miscellaneous deaths brought the weekend toll to 11.

The snow was directly responsible for the death of a Michigan soldier traveling along the Ohio Turnpike en route to his post in Virginia. A state highway patrolman said visibility became practically non-existent when the soldier encountered a snow storm and lost control of his car.

Two of the three miscellaneous deaths were of freakish nature. A baby girl accidentally hanged herself in her Middletown home when her sleeping clothes caught on a bed post, and a Lakewood man fell from a home-made trapeze and apparently broke his neck. The third death occurred in a fire.

The Associated Press fatality count of weekend accidents began at 6 p.m. Friday and ended midnight Sunday.

The fatalities:
Friday night:
William Smith, 60, Alexandria (Licking County), in a fire at home.

Charles H. Massey, 44, Rt. 1, Richmond (Jefferson County), in an auto accident on a county road near Steubenville.

Saturday:
Claude W. Vought, 25, Wilkes Barre, Pa., when his auto struck a railroad bridge abutment in Toledo.

Adam Burton Morgan, 33, former mayor of Sedalia (Madison County), when his car failed to make a turn on Ohio 56 six miles south of London.

Carolyn Long, 1½, accidentally hanged when a sleeping garment caught on a bed post at her Middletown home.

Sunday:

Kenneth Edward Hyder, 29, Dayton, of injuries received Saturday when struck by a car in Dayton.

John F. Joseph, 34, Akron, apparently drowned when he swerved his loaded coal truck to miss a stalled car on Ohio 250 and the truck plunged into Tappan Lake near Cadiz.

Richard Lee Griffin, 21, Hamilton, when his car went off a curve on Canal Road near Hamilton and struck two utility poles and a parked auto.

Daniel Fish, 52, Youngstown, struck by a car on a Youngstown street.

Pfc. Larry Waldo LeVeck, 18, Adrian, Mich., when his car left the snow-covered Ohio Turnpike, just west of the Lorain-Elyria interchange, crashed into a guard rail and overturned on him when he was thrown out.

Adelbert Klucar, 40, Lakewood, when he fell from a home-made trapeze at a Lakewood meeting hall.

Journal Reports Favorable Signs In U.S. Economy

CLEVELAND (AP)—Freight carloading and coal production hit their highest level in six weeks March 1 and heavy construction contract awards for the week ended March 6 were above the year-ago figure for the first time in 14 weeks, "Steel" magazine said today.

These favorable signs, along with a slight pickup in machine tool orders and a small uptick in new car sales in late February, may point to the beginning of the end of the recession, the metal-working journal said in its weekly review.

Meanwhile, steel production continued at the recession low level of 52.5 per cent of capacity last week, unchanged from the previous week. In Ohio a 5.5 point gain to 70 per cent in the Steubenville-Wheeling district and a 24.5 point rise to 53.5 in Cincinnati were offset by a one point decline to 52 in Youngstown and a 2-point drop to 34.5 per cent in Cleveland. Parents Should Try to Put Cheer Into Child's Bedroom

Do you have trouble herding your children off to bed at night? If so, did you ever stop to wonder if there was a deeper reason than the unfinished TV show, the early hour, or their inherent stubbornness?

A drab and unattractive bedroom could be one reason for their bedtime yowls of protest, for children are sensitive little individuals who react more openly to their surroundings than do adults.

It's important that a bedroom have a pleasing effect on a child's eye and mind, and be fashioned to his needs and tastes, yet have something of the grown-up about it.

First, a warm, cheerful atmosphere should be created with the essential elements of the room—the walls and flooring. This can be done in a number of ways, but one of the most permanent and popular is to use wood paneling for the walls.

Woods like Douglas fir or west coast hemlock have naturally rich, golden tones which make for a friendly feeling and are ideal for children's rooms, for they will take a lot of kicking and scuffing without showing battle scars.

Panel boards should be finished first with a sealer coat to bring out the wood's coloring, and then several coats of clear plastic, varnish or lacquer may be applied. Paint and crayon doodles will wash right off this type of finish with soap and water.

Flooring should be the indestructible kind—vinyl tiles or linoleum laid on easy-to-walk-on fir or hemlock flooring but bright and appealing in color. Throw rugs right next to the bed are a good idea for warming little bare feet the first thing in the morning, and there are several companies now designing washable rugs for children's rooms which depict favorite rhymes and stories in gay colors.

A lot of space can be saved and a small room made larger if built-in furniture is used. Youngsters seem to gravitate towards built-in bunk beds especially, and mothers appreciate their convenience.

Most of them consist of a box like frame into which a mattress is set, and clever designers have included drawers right in the frame for storage of extra blankets, linens, or even toys.

Bright, bold colors can be brought into the room via draperies and bedspreads, and patterns run the gamut from plaids to fanciful animals from Walt Disney's kingdom. Children usually like true clear hues of red, blue and yellow, though undiluted shades of orange and green have a lot of appeal to some.

Little shelves on wall brackets and corner what-nots are good items to include for your youngster's collections of storybooks or for display of beloved dolls, toy soldiers, and cherished nicknacks.

The main thing to keep in mind when starting out to do a child's room is to keep the basic plan simple and uncluttered, for your child will turn out to be the most enthusiastic decorator of his own room.

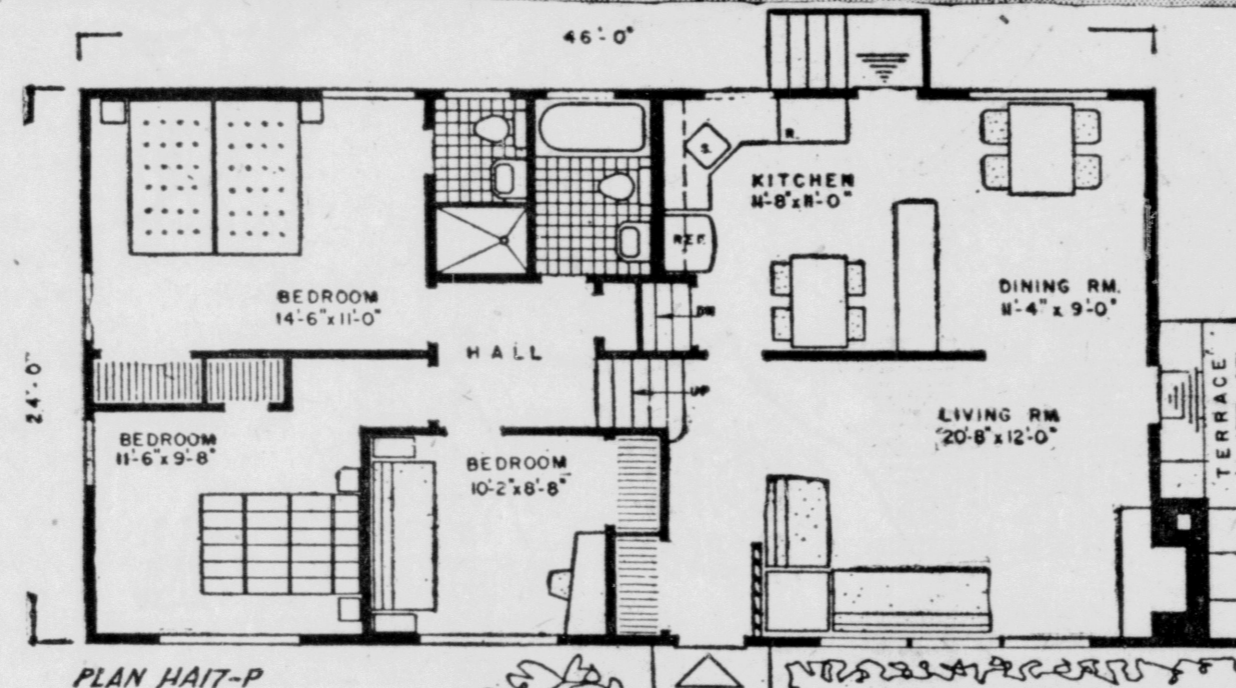

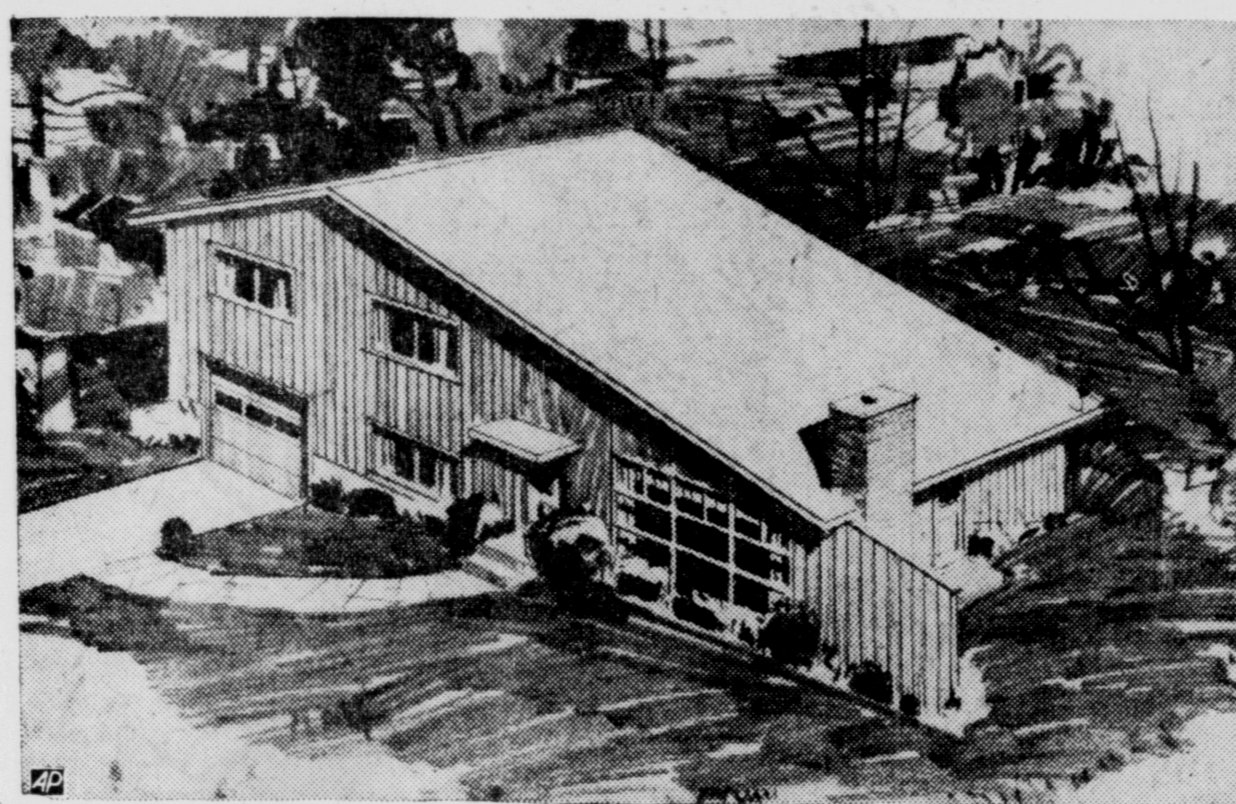

Multi-Use Wrench Is Handy On Farm

A heavy duty electric impact wrench that is 10 tools in one is a solution to many of the farm and ranch maintenance problems that normally call for a bagful of conventional tools.

Donald R. Burrowbridge, director of the Thor Research Center for Better Farm Living, reports that the Farm Tool, the new multi-purpose electric wrench, meets service needs in all phases of farm and ranch operations.

As a drill the FarmTool cuts up to 3/4 inch in metal and bores holes in wood up to 2 inches in diameter. And with its other accessories it serves, for example, as a nut setter, a tapper, a wire brush, screwdriver, sander, polisher and hole saw.

The driving action of the FarmTool can be reversed with a flip of a switch for removing nuts in dismantling equipment for service or repair.

A HANDSOME SPLIT LEVEL, this seven-room house has an unsymmetrical roof line which combined with the vertical siding and plywood panels over the great glass area of the facade blend to give a look of luxurious contemporary styling. The house has three bedrooms and 2 1/2 baths and has 1,104 sq. ft. on the first floor level. The den, garage, laundry, lavatory and terrace add 706 sq. ft. The plan, HA17-P, is by Architect Samuel Paul, 89-51 164th St., Jamaica 32, N.Y.

Is Your Home Prepared to Meet Crisis?

Emergency List Aids Wife

Is your home prepared to meet a crisis in the absence of the man of the house?

There are women who, though intelligent enough to cope with large emergencies such as blackouts and leaks, go to pieces when confronted with a wasp or mouse in the house.

I know a woman who became hysterically trapped in a room with two children because of a buzzing bee, an insect she feared.

Another woman aroused neighbors because a squealing half-dead mouse was caught in a trap, set by her husband, who was away on a business trip. She could not bring herself to touch it. (A shovel in the backyard would have come in handy for mouse disposal).

A MAN MAY PROVIDE a house for his family and then go off to work or on an extended business trip without explaining such vital things as (1) what to do if the electricity fails (2) location of fuse boxes (3) how to raise the damper in the fireplace.

Every home should have an emergency advice list hanging in a conspicuous place. It will help the lady of the house and the baby sitter as well.

Day workers, for instance, cannot always report a fire in the house properly because they do not even know the address of the house at which they are working, having been picked up at a bus stop or the employment agency by the employer. (One Connecticut day helper called the fire department, and knew the street she was on, but did not know which town she was in. Both towns had streets of the same name.)

HERE'S SOME ADVICE that might appear on the emergency list:

1. Location of fuses. (Label fuses at box with indelible ink showing area they affect.)
2. If a storm is a threat to lights and power, fill bathtub with water, wash dirty clothes and dirty dishes a once, fill up bottles, pails and jars with water.
3. Keep a fire extinguisher in a handy place, and leave instructions on how to use it. Water should never be used on fat or oil fires.
4. Attach electric cords to appliances before plugging them in the wall and never leave a cord dangling from the wall outlet. Make sure plug attachment has no chance of coming in contact with water around sinks, for instance.

5. STRESS THAT IN CASE of fire, the first thought should be for the occupants of the house. Tell the housewife how to escape from various rooms of the house in case she is trapped by fire.

6. Greasy paper or oil rags thrown in the fireplace can cause a chimney fire. Use only twigs or kindling to help start fires.

7. Instructions where flashlights and candles may be found in emergencies.

8. Make sure that fire tools for the chimney are long enough to reach the damper, particularly in case of a fire started mistakenly.

9. If floods occur in the cellar, do not enter it or attempt to turn on the lights while the water is high.

10. Telephone numbers of the plumber, electrician, fuel and power companies, and other emergency numbers such as fire and police.

ing their usefulness as traffic arteries. Think how useful shelves, floor to ceiling in height, kept dust-free by sliding doors, would be in an accessible location like a hallway. Tall doors can be hung on hardware and be ready for use without the usual sanding and filling if Presdip, a laminated hardboard is used.

TO PROTECT BOOKCASE

Protecting books on low shelves from toddlers can be accomplished readily by making a removable front. A simple way to do this is to install metal or wood molding strips at each side to form a track for a piece of Masonite tempered hardboard or one of the new patterned hardboards.

Prime and paint the slide, which the youngster can't budge but which can be slid up and out when an adult wants to select a book.

Modernizing Home Pays Three Ways

Modernizing pays in three ways: The fun of creating something with your own hands, the enjoyment of using what you built, and the realization of a greater value of your home.

Take the ordinary setting for a laundry room, for example. You have stationary tubs, a washing machine and perhaps a dryer. Could you use the following to advantage:

Walls around the laundry area separating it from a recreational space?

Cabinets for storing laundry supplies?

A sorting table? A cover for the tubs so they could be used for a hobby center or other purposes? All these improvements can be installed at a reasonable cost. Even the amateur craftsman, using Masonite Presdwood, the splinter-free, nonspitting panel without grain but with the smooth, long-wearing surface, can do a creditable job transforming a bleak laundry area into something highly acceptable to the homemaker.

Filmy fabrics can be sorted with out fear of snagging on a sorting table surfaced with Masonite Tempered Presdwood. Dampness in a laundry area won't harm these panels which are available at lumber yards.

A free plan detailing how to build cabinets around stationary tubs, and enclose a water heater may be obtained by mailing a postal to the Home Service Bureau, Suite 207, 111 W. Washington St., Chicago 2, Ill., and requesting No. AE-281.

Air Conditioning Saves Money For Homeowner

Home air conditioning has advantages which tend to offset much of the operating cost of the equipment. Humidity control eliminates extreme moisture which is responsible for peeling paint and sagging wall paper.

Closets and basement become safe for storage use, with danger of mildew and dampness virtually removed. Packaged foods stored in cabinets or on pantry shelves remain fresh longer.

A complete home air conditioning system heats the home and adds moisture to dry air in cold weather. It filters dust, soot, dirt and pollen from the air. It circulates clean air throughout the house.

NEW KIND OF GOLD

It would be a pretty difficult job for anyone to list all the commodities exported from the U.S. today, but back in 1608 there was only one: wood. The colonists at Jamestown didn't find gold as they expected, but they found valuable forests from which trees were cut and shaped into poles, shakes and other forest products which were exported to England as America's first merchantable cargo.

Asparagus was first used as a medicine, and then as a food in the 17th century.

Home Repair Dos and Don'ts

WOOD GLUES DO . . . know that hide and fish glues, which once had to be heated long and carefully, can now be used directly from their containers and have tremendous holding strength.

DO . . . use powdered resin glue when you want a water-resistant, non-staining adhesive.

DO . . . use powdered casein glue when you want a strong, heavy-duty adhesive, but work carefully with it to prevent getting any of it on the surface of the materials being joined.

DO . . . use only a waterproof glue for making joints or repairs on outdoor wooden furniture.

DON'T . . . forget that glue can not do much towards locking a poorly-made joint into place.

DON'T . . . neglect to read the instructions regarding the temperature of the room in which the gluing is being done, since some glues should not be applied while the room temperature is under 70 degrees Fahrenheit.

DON'T . . . fail to remember, also, that you must follow the instructions of the particular type glue being used to determine whether it should be allowed to become tacky before the joint is put together.

DON'T . . . overlook the possible use of contact cement for gluing together 2 pieces of wood even though its principal use is for bonding laminated plastic to wood.

Storage Space Can Be Found In Many Places

Storage space an ever-present problem in most homes may be found in unexpected locations by doing some imaginative scouting.

Three unlikely locations are a sunporch porch or hallway. Yet each has a reserve of unused space which can, in many cases, be converted quite readily into storage facilities for kitchenware, sportswear, occasionally — used dishes, vases and the like.

Cabinets for Toys

If youngsters play on the sunporch an excellent spot for their toys is in cabinets built under the windows. A visit to the lumber yard will provide the essential framing lumber and Masonite Tempered Presdwood to build a substantial cabinet with sliding doors.

For especially attractive paneling use one of the new textured hardboards like Seadrift or Misty Walnut.

An open or closed porch usually has a high — on — the — wall location where cabinets would be useful for out-of-season wearing apparel or sports equipment.

Even if bad weather hits the open porch cabinets of Masonite tempered hardboards can withstand the onslaught as they are moisture — resistant. Nicely painted they will be serviceable for years.

Hallways are a necessary evil in the home. In many instances they can be narrowed by six or eight inches on one side without impair-

Fire Extinguishers Were Loaded

At the end of 1956, the group of citizens who were advising the Senate Banking Committee at the time suggested it would be a good idea to study this country's monetary and credit policies, giving special attention to the use of monetary controls and their probable effect on the free enterprise system.

This suggestion was like wanting to know in advance what would happen if fire broke out and had to be fought with the fire extinguishers that were available. The problem of greatest concern at the close of 1956 was price inflation.

As the chairman of the Federal Reserve Board, William McChesney Martin Jr., was to testify in August before the Senate Finance Committee, everybody was hoping a leveling-out place would be reached soon. His hope then was that Americans would save more and spend less and thereby take the pressure off price inflation.

He hoped, in other words, that a falling-off in demand for goods would bring about price stabilization, meaning that a balance of demand and supply would make it possible to buy goods at price levels that would not be rising continuously but might sometimes be falling.

This was the shape of the inflation problem last August. Employment stood at 67.2 million. Unemployment stood at 3 million. The federal budget was expected to be in balance for the fiscal year, with a surplus. FRB Chairman Martin had pointed out that this was a good omen; that it would hurt the inflation-curbing campaign if a tax cut wiped out the prospect of a budget surplus.

The Federal Reserve was raising discount rates to curb inflation. Inflation was the prime problem—the fire to be put out with the fire extinguishers available.

THEN, SUDDENLY the prime problem was not price inflation but employment deflation. The government had cut back its military spending, causing extensive layoffs in airplane factories and military installations. This was one of the fire extinguishers.

Higher discount rates was a fire extinguisher, too, as was the decision to allow no tax cuts.

All the fire extinguishers had been unlimbered and put to use, but the new problem was not how to put out the fire of inflation but how to keep the country from drowning in the rising flood of unemployment, which last month had reached 5.2 million, with an employment total of 62 million compared with a total of 67.2 last midsummer.

Could any of this or all of this have been caused by the monetary and credit policies that were used last summer?

Was the standard cure for inflation that had been agreed on by many of the economic experts in and around Washington going to prove worse than the disease, itself?

Or—and this charge is being made by people who have no sympathy for skeptics who doubt that any boom can go on booming forever—is the distress of the first quarter of 1958 the price the country must pay for using anti-inflationary 'fire-extinguishers'?

Is this what unavoidably must happen if the United States tries to level out the boom-bust extremes that historically have caused prices, wages, profits and employment to swing from one extreme to another?

THIS WAS WHAT the Senate Banking Committee was urged to look into at the end of 1956.

The American people had been told during the Roosevelt, Truman and Eisenhower administrations that the nation was equipped to fight both inflation and deflation.

The fact is the equipment never had been tested. The anti-deflation equipment was shelved by wartime regulations. It never was tested until last year.

It cooled off the hot fires of inflation. . . or something did. But in 1958, they are being looked back on as the "good old days."

The study to learn what the effect of monetary controls on the free enterprise system was going to be may not be needed now.

The Senate Banking Committee has found out what the controls will do under actual conditions.

optimists simply disregarded the fact that rosiness can be turned to bloodiness with a simple twist of the innuendo, that action draws second-guessers like horses attract horse flies.

This Is Library Week

Hundreds of people visit the Salem Public Library daily, obtaining books that are a treasure chest to wisdom, inspiration and entertainment. Hundreds of others, unfortunately, do not borrow books, not realizing that within easy reach is a storehouse of useful and uplifting information.

This is National Library Week and the staff of the Salem Public Library joins in the observance to encourage greater reading of books, newspapers and magazines.

Reading can enlarge your life and does. It is a delight and a necessity for many. Youngsters are introduced to a new world of wonders through good books, busy housewives find solace in a good book as a respite from their chores, alert youths pour over books in their quest for knowledge to become useful, informed citizens and mature men read on, not only to be entertained, but so that they might understand other men.

Salem is fortunate to have a good library whose shelves contain nearly 45,000 volumes. Visit your library this week. Staff members will be happy to register you as a new borrower. The books are there for the asking.

People who are satisfied to take things just as they come seldom get very many of the good ones.

By H. I. Phillips

Once Over

Baby is in the industrial picture. The cradle and nursery feel the touch of regulations and controls. "Rock-a-Bye Baby" is being synchronized with "Social Security, I Love You" and we may yet have Baby Sitters Unions.

America has millions of sitters, professional and amateur, all with their own wage scales and ideas about overtime. If there is a disturbance from the nursery it may not be from the kid but rather from a board of arbitration and labor consultant.

SECURITY, withholding taxes, unemployment benefits, etc., enter into baby sitting in some states. In New York a bill was introduced to license baby sitters, make them wear badges and open the home to state inspectors. It was thrown out on the claim that mother had trouble enough with the children without being bothered by an army of bureaucratic checkers. Similar bills are reported around the nation.

Baby sitters in large numbers are now demanding the protection of labor laws. They say the job is no cinch these days, as mop-pets are not as docile as they used to be.

BY THE TIME they can walk the kiddies "get ideas." "Wanna play atomic war?" can be a question from Little Jennie to the sitter. At 5, a child may ask a sitter to help get a rocket into outer space, and start screaming if she won't discuss "sputniks" instead of Mother Goose. "Go to sleep like a nice little child," can bring a loud, "Aw, let's have a countdown. You be Cape Canaveral and I'll be a Vanguard."

If there are three or more children to be watched a baby sitter can qualify for a combat medal. We hear that some sitters ask coffee breaks, $2 an hour, and double for overtime and the right to notify a labor board when an infant throws a firecracker down the stairs in a hatbox and screams, "Bombs away!"

EDDIE ARCARO, famous jockey, is part owner of a Los Angeles restaurant. Fast service, we gather, is guaranteed with a dizzy stretch run. Racing influence on restaurants might have good results. It would help if customers could get handicap figures on cooks and waiters, showing which are purely sprinters and which are good over route to distant tables.

Depression Is History

By DAVID BARNETT

Official Washington, despite a bad case of recession jitters, is convinced the grim days of 1929 are not around the corner.

Even with 5,200,000 unemployed as the administration has announced, the economy is a long way from the days of the great depression.

From 1929 to 1932, national income dropped from 83 billion dollars to 40 billion; salaries and wages from 49 billion to 30 billion; corporate profits from $9,800,000,000 to three billion; farm income from 12 billion to $5,300,000,000.

Some 15 million were unemployed by 1933.

Both Democrats and Republicans agree these days can never return because there has been a fundamental change in U.S. economic life: Unlike the individualists of the '20s, the public now expects the government to take action to stem any business decline and the government has powerful weapons with which to intervene.

And, built into our economy are government programs dating from the 1930's that provide a continuing brake to a sliding economy.

THE MOST SUBTLE and, so far, the most used by the Eisenhower administration, are monetary and fiscal controls. By easing credit, the government, through the Federal Reserve Board, pushes the economy upward.

In the 1929 depression, there wiped out the savings of millions of citizens. That would be impossible today. Bank deposits up to $10,000 are insured by the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation.

The mere size of modern government — local, state and federal — acts to retard a business slide. Some 10 million Americans are on government payrolls which tend to increase during recessions. In addition, governmental units provide a depression-proof market for goods and services of some 40 billion dollars a year.

The government can use this purchasing power to hit specific pockets of distress. It can channel contracts to areas of unemployment. It can stockpile certain materials, as it has to help the lead and zinc industries.

Government provides purchasing power even for the unemployed through unemployment compensation. Secretary of Labor James Mitchell estimates that 3,300,000 workers are now getting unemployment compensation.

BOTH CONGRESS and the administration are working to extend the period such benefits will last.

A Birthday Boy

By TRUMAN TWILL

If there is one thought more likely to come to a man's mind on his birthday than any other, it is this:

"I am not showing my age as much as my contemporaries."

During early birthdays in the formative years, I took pride in what seemed to me to be incontrovertible evidence that I was concealing my immaturity better than the little punks who showed up for my birthday parties.

One kid in particular, I can recall, who was big for his age physically, yet had the mentality of a baby. He never tumbled to his obligation to show up with a present. It wasn't because of poverty, either. The brat just didn't know how to act his age.

Then there were the kids who got over-excited and had to be dry-docked. They were the worst. You'd think they never had been away from home before.

Later, I took satisfaction in knowing, as I entered my teens, that I had kissed every girl on Prospect St., thanks to my early discovery of a game called "post-office." This was a source of gratification, because I had it from a reliable source that other teenagers older than I, some of whom had smoked real cigarettes, had been unable to post a perfect score.

That was the way it went, until the emphasis shifted from making the most of each birthday to making the least of each one. This can happen on a birthday, or it can happen another. Mostly it happens about the 40th.

A birthday boy wakes up to the realization some things are no longer possible. He is not going to be president of the United States, rich, in the movies, an all-American athlete, or a juvenile delinquent.

He is not going to be noted for his thick head of hair, his sparkling beauty, athletic prowess or academic brilliance. He is never going to be a child prodigy.

He is not going to find oil, gold, uranium, natural gas or the Rock Candy Mountain.

He is not going to go to the South Pole, the North Pole, the Poloponneses Islands, the North Woods, the Big City, or the ends of the earth.

He is going to have to settle for what he really is — just a dasher of a fellow is concealing his age so successfully you could be forgiven for thinking his future lies ahead of him, or at least on either side of him, instead of behind him.

His contemporaries, unfortunately, have grown old before their time. Their minds have hardened. Their figures have deteriorated. They are not doing a good job of keeping up any more, poor devils. They don't seem to think it's worth the effort.

But not birthday boy — not him! When he starts to show his age as much as his contemporaries, he will go into hiding. Yes sir!

Smiley Menshikov

By JAY G. HAYDEN

Red Is Different Type of Soviet Ambassador

Smiles instead of scowls might not look to be worth much from the standpoint of ending the now 13-year-old pro-and anti-Communist cold war but there are signs that this change is upon us. Nikita Khrushchev was the first Russian top man who conspicuously smiled. At first, Khrushchev's friendly effervescence was attributed mainly to an excess of vodka but gradually an impression has grown that his is a calculated technique; so much so that many authorities now place him among the most skillful politicians of all time.

Until his illnesses slowed him down, President Eisenhower's cheerfully optimistic demeanor marked him all around the world as a main hope for peace; in marked contrast with the deduction from John Foster Dulles' dour countenance that he is the opposite.

And now comes a new Russian ambassador to the United States — Mikhail A. Menshikov — to upset all previous conceptions of that office under the Bolshevik regime, not even excepting Maxim Litvinov, who as special ambassador ended 15 years of diplomatic hiatus in 1933 and came back as ambassador briefly when the U.S. and Russia were wartime allies.

MENSHIKOV had no more than stepped off a glistening jet airliner (at Baltimore's Friendship Airport, because Washington wouldn't let the new contraption come nearer) than reporters twigged that here was something different in Soviet ambassadors.

Occupants of that office notoriously have been short, broad, stonyfaced and, above all, non-communicative. Menshikov, relatively slender, facially handsome, impeccably dressed and smiling with all his might, began talking almost before he left the runway.

He had come, he said, as an "ambassador of peace, friendship and cooperation" in effort to "strengthen an atmosphere of understanding and trust between our countries." He spoke earnestly of the "mutual advantages" of increased trade between the U.S. and Russia.

The next morning, the new ambassador hastened to call on Secretary Dulles. After pictures were taken of the two, Dulles dryly observed: "We didn't settle the disarmament question." Menshikov added brightly, "Not yet, anyhow."

Next day Menshikov emerged from a longer talk with President Eisenhower, declaring that both agreed that a "summit" meeting would be held.

An evening or so later eyes of Washington socialites bulged at a published photograph of Menshikov, in white tie and tails and plug hat, with his extremely attractive wife, leaving for a White House reception.

No doubt other Russians abroad have worn such capitalistic refinery but it is not remembered that one of them ever before went out of his way to be so photographed.

THE CLIMAX came when Menshikov talked with the President and Secretary Dulles together for 40 minutes. At the end, the Russian said that the conference had been "friendly and useful."

Before TV cameras he added that he found the President "looking healthy and cheerful. He is frank and straightforward, open-hearted — qualities we Russians do like."

Neither of the American participants said anything immediately. One reason for that omission, it was intimated, being that the Russians have failed completely to publish the President's latest reply to Prime Minister Bulganin.

White House Secretary James C. Hagerty said failure to let the Russian people know American views "seems a little odd." About the same time, Mr. Eisenhower released, in the form of a letter to James J. Wadsworth, newly appointed U.S. disarmament negotiator, a pledge to do everything in his power to remove the danger of war.

A Russian source said Menshikov emphasized that his government's attitude toward preparation for a summit meeting was "flexible."

The best feature of Menshikov's performance to date is that he has made no effort in the field of offensive propaganda. Perhaps that will come in due time; for instance when he gets a first class spot on television. But up to this moment his actions and word have been all sweetness and light.

Windfall For Oldsters

By WILLIAM RAPP

Whether or not there is an across - the - board tax cut this year, America's senior citizens are assured an estimated billion-dollar windfall in tax forgiveness.

Extra personal exemptions, deductions for retirement income and larger medical allowances will cut tax bills for the 15 million men and women who have passed their 65th birthday.

The most important single benefit for the older in the tax law is the double personal exemption. This means that instead of the standard $600 deduction allowed each taxpayer for his personal expenses, the older is entitled to $1,200 of earned income before he has to file a return.

If the senior's wife, too, is 65, the couple need not pay taxes on joint income under $2,400 — though a return must be filed unless each made less than $1,200 last year. Thus, with the addition of the standard 10 per cent deduction, the over-65 couple does not pay any tax until income climbs past $2,675.

Looking Backward

FROM THE NEWS FILES

5 YEARS AGO — Mrs. William Lutz and Mrs. Orin Franks were guests of the Coronet Club Friday night when members met with Mrs. Robert Lutz of E. 7th St.

10 YEARS AGO — T. Emerson Smith was named president of the newly - formed Salem Retail Food Merchants Association at a recent meeting. D. C. Cannon was chosen vice president and Henry Schuster, secretary-treasurer.

25 YEARS AGO — Mrs. H. C. Thompson, Miss Myrtle Windle and Mrs. Charles Cornwall, members of Salem's Eastern Star, will attend the birthday dinner party of the Warren chapter tonight.

40 YEARS AGO — Miss Alma Haviland and Mrs. Harold Williams spent Sunday in Youngstown as guests of the former's sister and husband, Dr. and Mrs. Russell Mounts.

So They Say

If we are a nation headed for the pocrnouse, we certainly are going well-heeled. — Edward T. Ragsdale, vice president of General Motors, noting great increase in private savings accounts and disposable income.

It seems to me utterly fallacious that there are somehow or other two types of communism, the bad type represented by the Soviet international Communist conspiracy and the so-called good type of independent communism, as supposedly exemplified by Tito (of Yugoslavia) and Gomulka (of Poland). — Sen. Styles Bridges (R-N.H.), indignant at U.S. move to aid Poland with 98 million dollars credit.

The nearly 10 million men and women receiving Social Security or Railroad Benefits — over nine million of the former and more than 600,000 of the latter — do not have to report these sums. Disabled Veterans' Benefits paid to retirees are also exempt. So are Public Old-Age Assistance payments.

In 40 of the 48 states, people over 65 may omit 20 per cent of their tax bill (up to $240) on what the government defines as retirement income—pensions, annuities, interest and rent but not salary.

By a legal quirk, over-65 couples living in the eight states with community property laws are eligible for double the retirement income deduction. Uncle Sam, bowing to the states' interpretation, allows each partner to subtract the full $240. These states are: Arizona, California, Idaho, Louisiana, Nevada, New Mexico, Texas and Washington.

Does the extra $240 a year in tax allowance cast the deciding vote on where an elderly couple retires? Rep. Paul G. Rogers (D-Fla.) has no doubts about it.

Sponsoring legislation to extend the double benefit to all retirees, he insists that it has been a "real inducement to retired people to move to California to gain a tax advantage, even though they may have preferred to come to Florida."

Congress has also recognized the senior's special medical and dental needs. Where the younger citizens may not deduct these expenses until they total more than 3 per cent of his year's gross, taxpayers over 65 may take every cent of legitimate medical and dental bills.

Income from annuities or certain private pension plans are partly tax exempt. However, since annuity and pension plans differ widely, the Internal Revenue Service offers the taxpayer a consultation service, at any local tax office, which will give him specific advice on reporting such income.

Hanover Wide-Awakes

The Hanover Wide-Awakes 4-H Club met Monday at the American Legion Hall with 32 members, three advisors and a visitor in attendance. It was announced that the junior leader meeting will be March 20 at 8 p.m. in St. George's Parish in Lisbon. All advisors, junior leaders and members over 14 years of age are encouraged to attend.

There also will be a West District meeting for all advisors and officers April 7. Because this meeting falls on the regular meeting night, the next club meeting will be April 14.

A report on Heart Sunday was given by Anna Gruber, heart association nurse of Columbiana county. The 4-H members and the American Legion Auxiliary in Hanover collected $197 in the Hanover area.

A review of safety for teen-age drivers was discussed by one of the advisors, and a talk on forestry was heard from C. P. Kelton. Club members were told they would not receive any pine trees this year.

Betty Jo Zehentbauer talked on duties of the officers, and Paul Zehentbauer gave a health talk on the common cold and the value of vitamins.

The meeting was called to order by the president Carol Ritz, the 4-H Pledge was given, and the secretary, Betty Loudon, read the minutes of the previous meeting.

Lunch was served by Gertrude Snyder, Cheryl and Lynn Kupinski and Dan Baker.

This And That

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—Things a columnist might never know if he didn't open his mail:

That since Ireland lost its great oak forests, most shillelaghs now come from Germany.

That there are more than 1½ million people named Smith in the United States, which probably explains why your neighbor may prefer to be known as Smythe.

That a poll recently showed the average corporation president is 50 years old, a college graduate, earned $68,000 a year, and his favorite card game is bridge. Hope they never poll us poker players!

That the reason playing cards are called "pasteboards" is: They are made by pasting together two thin sheets of specially treated paper.

That women's hosiery now comes in 450 tints and shades. Isn't that odd, considering that if a man buys a black car today they call him a show-off?

That smoking at one time was prohibited in New England taverns. Today it's all you can do to keep some people from lighting up in church.

That there are more than 1,000 islands in the Thousand Islands. And most Panama hats are made in Ecuador.

That Robert W. Lewis says: "A spinster is a woman who knows all the answers, but nobody asks her the questions."

That if you want to become rich and famous, here's a way: simply invent a household paint that will smell pleasant while drying.

That Irwin H. Kramer of the Hotel Edison, after talking to 10,000 guests, has reached his conclusion: "People will believe anything if you tell them it's a rumor."

That Utah has the highest birth rate and the lowest death rate. That if you're afraid of women you're suffering from gynophobia. If you're afraid of men you've got androphobia. And if you're afraid of both, you've probably got ulcers.

That the average beaver's house is 15 to 20 feet in diameter and 8 feet high, or slightly larger than a $100-a-month Manhattan apartment.

That in the last seven years 4.7 million Americans left farms. But that was before the current recession.

That it was William E. Woodward who observed: "Vanity as an impulse has without doubt been of far more benefit to civilization than modesty has ever been."

How Human Body Reacts to Emotions

"Every time my husband and I read about someone taking a lie detector test we argue about why more people don't take them to solve their difficulties," writes Mrs. M. She adds that what she really wants to know is whether these tests can be depended on.

I should hardly think that a lie detector test could be used every time there was a family argument, but it is true that there is a great deal of misinformation about so-called lie detectors, truth serums and their use in the detection of crime.

ACTUALLY, these methods are based on the way which the human body reacts to emotion in the case of the "lie detectors" and to drugs in the case of "truth serums."

Anyone who has watched crime shows on TV knows that a lie detector is a rather complicated looking apparatus. Bands and other devices are fastened to the body. These measure the number of breaths taken each minute, whether they are deep or shallow, the rate of the pulse and the blood pressure.

THE SPEED and depth of the breathing, the heart rate and the blood pressure are all influenced by emotion. Fear, excitement and other emotions send messages which pass down the nerves of the sympathetic nervous system and are carried to the muscles controlling breathing and heart rate.

The sympathetic nerves are not under voluntary control. That is, a person does not have complete control over the breathing or the heart rate as one does over the muscles which move an arm or a leg.

The brain does not send messages along the sympathetic nerves as it does down the other nerves which act on the voluntary muscles. For these reasons, even when one wishes to control emotional messages along the sympathetic nerves, it is impossible to do so.

NEARLY EVERYONE is subject to emotion when he or she tells a lie. This emotion may be kept out of the expression of the face or out of voluntary movement of the muscles, but messages pass down the sympathetic nerves and act on the heart and breathing muscles in a way which can be measured and recorded.

The lie detector, therefore, is merely a sensitive way of measuring emotion. The value of the machine depends entirely on the training and experience of the person who is using it.

There is no serum or drug which can be given which will force a person to tell the whole truth and nothing but the truth. All drugs used for this purpose depend on the power which they have of producing a state of relaxation, somewhat similar to sleep. During such relaxation the power to invent lies may be decreased so that questions are answered more truthfully.

Our failures are very discouraging. They are even more serious when others criticize us and ridicule what we have tried to accomplish. Sneers seem to devastate our whole being. Men are so hard on each other. They look down condescendingly on their fellow men. Failure makes us want to give up or surrender our ambitions. It makes us want to hide.

God is so much more magnanimous than we men. He is more sympathetic. He is completely understanding and patient. God never gives up. He never recognizes defeat.

Regardless of how badly we fail, God does not forsake us. He is ever present to give us another chance. He forgives sins which men hold against their friends through life. God never sees man as worthless. He always holds out a helping hand and offers salvation. We must be doubly aware of God's love during Lent, and treat others as God treats us.

Inside Labor

By Victor Riesel

Mid-day last Monday, one of the phones jangled on the desk of White House press chief Jim Hagerty. Over the wire came the voice of an old friend, though hardly a political ally. It was George Meany, Mr. Labor himself calling. Meany told Hagerty that some of the AFL-CIO high command would like to sit down with the President and talk about working things out to get those more than five million jobless back to work.

In a short time it was arranged. The AFL-CIO Executive Committee — one of whose eight members is the embattled Walter Reuther — could come in on Thursday. Hagerty had gone back to the President.

Mr. Eisenhower approved the meeting but suggested that Labor Secretary James Mitchell be called. That channel was cleared. Vice President Nixon, who was doing most of the over-all administration planning got a call, too, it is understood.

The eight labor men who were asking to see the President are political opponents. They have fought the President twice. Some had criticized him right up to the very hour during which Meany had been on the phone with Hagerty. But both sides wanted this session — and on Tuesday morning, Meany was able dramatically to announce to the AFL-CIO Emergency Economic Legislative Conference at the Sheraton Park Hotel that the executive committee would be talking with the President on the rally's theme, "Put America Back to Work."

SELDOM HAS anyone asked, or been permitted, to cut so quickly into a presidential day. But this is one "summit" meeting for which the administration is eager. It wants the jobless back at work. It knows it can't match the daring suggestions of the veteran labor chiefs who have been through all this once before. But the White House seized this chance to show the nation that it is willing to discuss the recession even with the men who blame it for the downturn.

However, this session, and the rallies these past few days were but the opening parries in labor's first hard-hitting offensive since it merged. Typical of what's to come are the battle plans of Walter Reuther's United Auto Workers Union. It is all set to fight first for nothing less than a 3-month moratorium on withholding taxes. And it will all be done with characteristic Auto Union ingenuity.

The pattern for national action is first being tried in New Jersey where auto and aircraft plants have been hard hit. Reuther's union has been making a survey of work at each factory.

With these details down on paper, the regional leaders have been called to action rallies. The final one being scheduled for March 22 at the Alexander Hamilton Hotel in Paterson. From that session there will fan out special committees whose task it will be to converge on all unemployment insurance offices.

TABLES AND CHAIRS will be set up on the streets. Printed petitions to the President of the U.S. will be offered to the jobless for signatures. The petitions will ask for higher unemployment relief benefits and for a federal law declaring a holiday on withholding taxes.

The petitions will follow up a letter Reuther wrote to President Eisenhower on Feb. 19. In that letter, Reuther said that such a tax holiday would put the equivalent of about ½ billion dollars a week into added buying power.

"If such a moratorium were declared," Reuther wrote, "the bulk of this amount would be spent immediately, since the beneficiaries would consist mainly of relatively low-income wage and salaried workers with enormous unmet needs. . . . Since less than ½ billion dollars a week might prove sufficient under relatively favorable circumstances, to bring the economy out of recession, the standby legislation could be so written as to enable you to declare a partial moratorium — say on the first $5 to $10 of taxes that would otherwise be withheld weekly from each worker's pay instead of the full amount."

Reuther added that Congress could extend the moratorium until the administration had launched a wide public works, housing, hospital and school construction program to take up the slack.

After tens of thousands of unemployed sign these petitions in New Jersey they will be taken back to local union headquarters. Each union plans to hire buses, fill them with delegations carrying the petitions and roll them right up to the White House. The plan is to present them to Jim Hagerty for transmittal to the President. The New Jersey pattern will be copied across the nation with Reuther's people taking the lead. The Hall Syndicate of course.

Rev. S. T. Magann

Rev. S. T. Magann Dies In Virginia

The Rev. S. Talmage Magann, former pastor of the First Baptist Church, died of Parkinson's disease Friday at his home in Buena Vista, Va.

He served as pastor of the local church from October, 1937, to March, 1945, when he resigned due to ill health.

He was a graduate of Washington and Lee University, Southern Baptist Theological Seminary and Crozer Theological Seminary and was ordained June 30, 1926.

His only survivor is his wife, Stella, who formerly taught school here.

Services were planned for today in Buena Vista.

August Candle. He married Marie King in 1923.

Mr. Candle was employed at the Deming Co. as a helper in the floor room for 34 years.

Survivors include his wife; one daughter, Mrs. James Marshall of Columbia; two granddaughters, one brother, Stephen of Columbia; and several nieces and nephews.

Vanguard

telephoned description of the Vanguard's smooth flight.

The Vanguard thundered off its launching stand to the cheers of watchers who had seen two previous firings end in flames and discouragement.

The launching was primarily an experiment in the capability of the three-stage rocket to climb 200 or more miles and then angle into a horizontal course.

The Air Force gave the launching time as 7:16 a.m.

The 72-foot Vanguard climbed vertically for 10 seconds and then angled to the southeast.

The giant rocket put out a trail of white smoke, and part of the rocket could be seen to break away.

This may have been the first stage falling away from the main part of the rocket.

The missile then put out a pink trail of vapor.

When the 44-foot first stage fell away, the rocket was at an altitude of 35 miles. Vanguard experts said the first stage probably fell into the ocean about 275 miles from this launching site.

The 11-ton Vanguard three-stage rocket is two feet taller than the Jupiter-C, only one-third as heavy, and is 45 inches in diameter at the base compared with a 70-inch diameter for the first stage of the Jupiter-C.

The newest of the satellites contained two radios, one powered by solar cells designed to draw their energy from the sun and the other by conventional batteries.

The sun-powered radio, operating on 108.03 megacycles at about 5 milliwatts, was geared to send back information on the temperature of the satellite's aluminum skin. The other would broadcast internal temperatures on 108 megacycles at 10 milliwatts.

The baby moon's companion satellite would be the Vanguard-sent third-stage rocket, a tube 16 inches in diameter and 5 feet long.

In Louisiana many of the old French laws of pioneer days are still in force and a considerable part of the population still speaks French as much as they do English.

Besides his mother, who resides in Hanoverton, he is survived by his wife, Beatrice of the home; and a grandson. He was preceded in death by a son, Russell H. Swearingen Jr., who was killed in an automobile accident in 1944 while he was in the service.

Funeral service will be at the Cassaday & Tuttle Funeral Home Wednesday at 3 p.m. The Rev. John B. Stephens Jr. will officiate.

Sukarno announced that his forces had captured the town of Siak Sri Indrapura in Central Sumatra. He claimed the seizure consolidated the central government's control of the east coast of Central Sumatra. The rebels still hold the west coast and its big port, Padang.

Sukarno also authorized the U.S.-owned Caltex Oil Co. to resume operations in the Central Sumatran oil fields around Pakanbaru. The company suspended operations when Jakarta forces invaded.

The Columbia County Archers placed among the winners at a shoot held in Warren Sunday.

The Trumbull Archery Club was host at its indoor range.

Evelyn Kuhns of Lisbon won in the women's division; Ralph Quinn of Washingtonville won in the intermediate division; Ralph Flagan of Lisbon won in the junior division; and Joe Novak of Lisbon was second in the junior division.

The shoot was a 28 target, small game round, using animal targets. It was the first time any members of the county club had ever shot such a round indoors.

The Columbia County Archers are working on their outdoor course at Lisbon in order to have 56 targets completed for the early bird field shoot May 18.

Preparations are being made to take care of 400 shooters this year.

Johnson said he thinks a potential two million jobs are represented in measures pending before Congress. He pointed to a housing bill, a highway bill, the 12-billion-dollar omnibus rivers and harbors bill and proposed acceleration of civil and military public works.

Columbiana County Archers Win Events

LISBON — Columbiana County Archers placed among the winners at a shoot held in Warren Sunday.

The Trumbull Archery Club was host at its indoor range.

Evelyn Kuhns of Lisbon won in the women's division; Ralph Quinn of Washingtonville won in the intermediate division; Ralph Flagan of Lisbon won in the junior division; and Joe Novak of Lisbon was second in the junior division.

The shoot was a 28 target, small game round, using animal targets. It was the first time any members of the county club had ever shot such a round indoors.

The Columbia County Archers are working on their outdoor course at Lisbon in order to have 56 targets completed for the early bird field shoot May 18.

Preparations are being made to take care of 400 shooters this year.

Now simply because the wheels have been set in motion and the government is actively at work to combat unemployment," the Senate Democratic leader said.

"The immediate problem is 5,200,000 men and women who need jobs. We are moving rapidly — in cooperation with the executive agencies — to find ways of creating those jobs."

Cleveland East Tech to Go Against Zanesville Friday

Middletown to Tangle With Columbus North

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—It doesn't appear probable, but there may be a jinx trailing Middletown's mighty Middles.

That sounds a bit far-fetched since the Butler County powerhouse boasts the coach of the year in Paul Walker, the Buckeye realm's finest star in Jerry Lucas, 76-game winning streak, and seven Class AA high school championships in the last 14 years.

The Middles have won the state title the last two years—and that may be the signal for the jinx to appear this weekend in his state tournament.

Twice before, in 1946 and 1947, and in 1952 and 1953, the Middles repeated as the state scholastic kings. Each time they failed to make it three in a row, but for neither third try were they as heavily armed as the current squad.

Now they're faced with the same situation—and they'll be going against three teams with matching 24-0 records in the weekend cage carnival.

Walker, gunning for his sixth title in 12 years at the Middletown helm, sends his stalwarts against Columbus North at 9 p.m. Friday at St. John Arena here. The tilt follows the Cleveland East Tech-Zanesville affair which starts at 7:30 p.m. The winners meet at 8 p.m. Saturday for the laurels, and each is certain to have a 25-0 mark at the time.

Emergence of the four unblemished quintets marks the first time in the tournament's 36-year history that all entrants are unbeaten. The three unsullied teams in Class A add to the glamor of what undoubtedly is Ohio's Gaudiest tournament.

In Class A Friday afternoon the apings made here Sunday send Pleasantville (22-3) against Bucyrus Holmes-Liberty (24-0) at 1:30 p.m., and Northwestern of Wayne County and Dixie of Montgomery County—each with a 27-0 mark—against each other at 3 p.m. The victors meet Saturday at 2 p.m. with the title on the line.

The entire eight-team field carries a record of 196 victories and three defeats into the tournament. All three losses are chalked up against Pleasantville which is still in the state championship scrap after failing to win the Fairfield County title.

The Class AA finalists made the state scrap appear as if they had been gazing into a crystal ball as they voted in the final Associated Press poll. The sports writers, in the closing ratings while 387 teams were still in action, picked Middletown as No. 1, Cleveland East Tech as No. 2, Zanesville as No. 3, and Columbus North as No. 6. The latter upset a perfect fourth-ranked Toledo Scott 52-50 in the regional at Marion.

Cleveland East Tech as a slight statistical edge over the Middles, having outscored the champs 1,384 to 1,976 in 24 games, and having allowed only 1,242 points against Middletown's 1,272. But if the Scarabs get by Zanesville's 1926 and 1953 champions in the semi-finals, and Columbus North falls before the Middles, East Tech could be bothered by memories in the title game.

It was just two years ago at Cleveland, in the opening round of the state finals, that Lucas made his debut in title play. East Tech was the foe, and Lucas poured a basket to give the Middles a 99-88 conquest.

The Cleveland East Tech and Zanesville met in the Berea regionals last year. East Tech was a 79-57 victor.

The tournament teams will have no practice sessions on the arena floor, graduation ceremonies for Ohio State students having erased the usual Thursday workouts.

Walker said he'd wait until late Friday to bring his Middles here, and most of the other teams are expected to hold their final practices at home. A 30-minute pregame warmup, instead of the usual 20, will be permitted.

The coaches and faculty representatives of the eight finalists each returned home with 1,000 to 1,200 tickets for the opening games, after the open draw pairings. First round survivors will be allotted about 2,000 tickets for the finals.

But the hopes were faint. The first loss was against the Soviet "B" club, and the Americans had to play almost strictly on the defensive. The second game will be against the European champion Russian team, the same one that finished second to Canada in the recent world championships.

Mantle, Berra Lead New York To 4-1 Victory Over Milwaukee

By The Associated Press
Mickey Mantle and Yogi Berra have started to get the bat squarely against the ball and today the word went out "Beware the Yankees."

The New York sluggers snapped their slumps and unleashed their lethal power Sunday, leading the American Leaguers to a 4-1 exhibition victory over the world champion Milwaukee Braves.

It was the first meeting between the two teams since the World Series.

Mantle and Berra aroused the entire Yank cast from its lethargic play and lifted New York's Grapefruit League record to 4-5.

The Yanks got some solid pitching from veteran Art Ditmar and youngsters Ryne Duren and Al Cicotte, who combined for an eight-hitter.

Mantle stroked two doubles, scoring twice and accounting for one run driven in. Berra slashed a double, added a single and picked up two RBIs.

Cleveland's Indians also got a boost when ace pitcher Herb Score finally made his exhibition debut. Sidelined last year when a batted ball struck him in the eye, Score suffered an ankle sprain early in spring training.

He gave up two runs and four hits in a three-inning stint as the Indians bowed to San Francisco 6-5. Johnny Antonelli won it.

Washington unveiled a slugger in Neil Chrissy, who struck three homers in a 10-6 victory over Detroit. St. Louis defeated Cincinnati 6-3; Los Angeles knocked off Boston 5-1; Pittsburgh edged Philadelphia 6-5 in 10 innings; and Chicago's White Sox clubbed Kansas City 8-2.

Chrissy drove in six runs with his three round-trippers, one a grand slammer, as the Nats routed Paul Foytack with five runs in the first.

Stan Musial's three-run homer, highlighting a five-run eighth,

Those on the farm club rosters are slated to be among the first shipment of players to the Indians' farm club training camp at Daytona Beach, Fla.

The Indians were flown back here following Sunday's 6-5 loss to the San Francisco Giants in Los Angeles. They will meet the Giants today in the first game of a benefit twin bill at Scottsdale. The Baltimore Orioles and Chicago Cubs will play the other game of the St. Patrick's Day doubleheader.

To Meet Robinson on March 25

Basilio Determined to Break Winless Streak In Chicago

NEW YORK (AP)—Middleweight champion Carmen Basilio headed for Chicago today determined to break his winless streak in that city in his return bout with Sugar Ray Robinson at the Stadium March 25.

Asked whether he expected to break the Chicago "jinx", he said: "That's no jinx. I didn't get what was coming to me, that's all."

"I had three fights there — with Chuck Davey, Billy Graham and Johnny Saxton — and lost them all. I know I really lost only one — to Graham. I beat the others as sure as the sunrises daily."

"All I want is a fair shake. I beat Robinson the last time (Sept. 23, 1957) and I'm going to beat him again. I've never entered a fight where I didn't think I could win. I've boxed more for this one than for any other fight, I think."

"I'll box just two or three rounds in five workouts in Chicago. I think I'm just about ready right now. I'm going to concentrate on road work in Chicago."

Basilio weighed 153½ to Robinson's 160 when he took the crown from Sugar Ray by decision in a stirring fight at the Yankee Stadium. He said he expects to weigh about the same.

What was the toughest thing about fighting Robinson?

"His height," said Basilio. "I've got to punch up at him and that takes away power. But I've had the experience of fighting him and I've learned plenty."

Robinson is scheduled to leave by train tonight for Chicago.

The Dodgers scored in the fifth and Boston knotted the count in the sixth. But that's where the run-making ended and for 20 consecutive innings nobody crossed the plate.

As the teams were getting ready to start the 27th inning — the equivalent of three full games — the umpire called things off because of darkness, after three hours and 50 minutes.

It went into the record books as a 1-1 tie.

True, Cadore gave up 15 hits — including three to Rabbit Maravalle, one to Hank Gowdy and a double to Oeschger himself.

"But I pitched that game with my head," he'd say as he'd finish his story the latest time.

Cadore never compiled a startling record, but managed to stay nine years in the National League before winding up his career with John McGraw's New York Giants early in the 1924 season.

GONZALES BEATS HOAD
PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP)—Pancho Gonzales narrowed his deficit in the pro cross country tour to two matches Sunday by defeating Australian tennis star Lew Hoad, 6-0, 7-5.

It went into the record books as a 1-1 tie.

True, Cadore gave up 15 hits — including three to Rabbit Maravalle, one to Hank Gowdy and a double to Oeschger himself.

"But I pitched that game with my head," he'd say as he'd finish his story the latest time.

Cadore never compiled a startling record, but managed to stay nine years in the National League before winding up his career with John McGraw's New York Giants early in the 1924 season.

GONZALES BEATS HOAD
PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP)—Pancho Gonzales narrowed his deficit in the pro cross country tour to two matches Sunday by defeating Australian tennis star Lew Hoad, 6-0, 7-5.

Dick Hunter Named To All-PAC Squad

Dick Hunter of Salem, a sophomore cager at Western Reserve University in Cleveland, was named to the All PAC team at voting conducted last week. The balloting was held by the coaches of the teams.

The PAC, President's Athletic Conference, is made up of Western Reserve, John Carroll, Case Tech and Wayne State of Detroit.

Hunter was named to a first team guard position along with Fred Snowden of Wayne State. The center is John Stavole of John Carroll while the forwards are Dick Drebes and Gary Furrin of Carroll.

Hunter has Reserve's high scorer last season with a 13.6 average in 18 games.

He holds the all-time Salem High School mark for most points scored in one season with 401 set in the 1955-56 season.

Bruins Trowned By Red Wings 6-3

By The Associated Press
The Detroit Red Wings had third place in the National Hockey League all to themselves today.

But is that good?

Should the Red Wings hold that position until the regular season's finish next Sunday, they will meet the powerful Montreal Canadiens in the first round of the Stanley Cup playoffs.

And although they are riddled by injuries, the champion Canadiens still are formidable foes. Sunday night they defeated the New York Rangers 3-2 while the Red Wings trounced the Boston Bruins 6-3.

Gordie Howe had his 31st goal and Johnny Wilson had four assists as the Wings took a two-point lead over the Bruins, who fell to fourth place.

Dartmouth Crushed By Temple Five 69-50

By The Associated Press

Comes now showdown week in major college basketball for 10 surviving teams.

Regional champions Temple, Kentucky, Kansas State and Seattle are left in the National Collegiate tournament, started with 24 teams. Semifinals and finals will be held at Louisville Friday and Saturday.

There are six survivors in the National Invitation Tournament at New York — Bradley, Xavier of Ohio, Dayton, Fordham, St. Bonaventure and St. John's of New York. Twelve teams started. Two more will be topped off Tuesday night. The semifinals are Thursday night and the finals Saturday afternoon.

Here's the lineup at a glance: NCAA-Temple (26-2) vs. Kentucky (21-6); Kansas State (2-3) vs. Seattle (2-5). Winners play for title Saturday night.

NIT-Bradley (20-6) vs. Xavier (16-11); Dayton (23-3) vs. Fordham (15-8) Tuesday night. Bradley-Xavier winner faces St. Bonaventure (20-4) Dayton-Fordham winner plays St. John's (18-6) in Thursday's semifinals. Winners to Saturday final.

Xavier got into the quarter-final bracket impressively, whipping Niagara 95-86, while Fordham romped past St. Francis of Pennsylvania 83-59. Third-seeded St. Bonaventure was a 79-75 winner over St. Joseph's (Pa.) after a first-round bye. St. John's, Saturday's other game, upset fourth-seeded Utah 71-70.

Temple, riding a 25-game winning streak that is the longest in the nation among major schools is favored to advance to the NCAA finals against Kansas State, the big, bruising Big Eight conference champion.

But the way Kentucky's Wildcats, old hands at NCAA tournament competition, and Seattle, with its great Elgin Baylor, have been playing, there's no guarantee.

The Wildcats smashed a good Notre Dame team 89-56 Saturday night in the Midwestern regional final at Lexington, Ky. Seattle first snapped San Francisco's 20-game winning streak on Baylor's 35-foot jump shot at the buzzer, then rode Charlie Brown's clutch play to a 66-62 overtime victory over California in the Far Western regional.

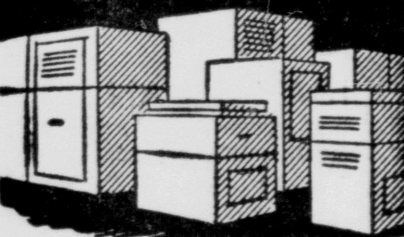

Temple, led by All America Guy Rodgers, crushed Dartmouth in Saturday's title game 69-50 of the Eastern regional at Charlotte.

Kansas State, with three regulars 6-3 or more, overpowered Oklahoma State 69-57 in the Midwestern regional final at Lawrence, Kan.

Young Giant Extremely Shy, Polite

Los Angeles Grooming Howard For Pro Career In Baseball

VERO BEACH, Fla. (AP) — The Los Angeles Dodgers players were going around counting the fingers on their right hands, and trying to pry them apart.

They had just shaken hands with the biggest, shyest, most polite baseball outfielder in captivity, a bonus baby from Columbus, Ohio, named Frank Oliver Howard.

The young giant—he stands 6 feet 6 inches and weighs 220 — was at Vero Beach when the Dodgers made a flying visit there for a game. He had taken a furlough from Ohio State University, where he is studying for a physical education degree, and will go back next winter to complete his final quarter to be graduated.

He not only was shy and polite. He was eager, and scared. Not physically scared, but scared as any 21-year-old would be when tossed among a bunch of seasoned pro ball players. He was scared he wouldn't make a good impression, and pathetically eager to do anything anyone told him to do.

He never answered a question, or addressed anyone, without tacking a "sir" on the end. He even "sirred" a handyman, and Rube Walker probably nearly flipped when, in the batting cage, the big kid said: "Here's a ball, sir." Rube isn't accustomed to such consideration.

Howard isn't just tall; he's big all over, and well proportioned and well-coordinated. His hands are so vast that when he picked up a bat it looked like a toothpick, prompting Carl Furillo to point to a flagpole and blurt: "There's his bat."

He's no goon, this towering kid who captained the Ohio State basketball team and averaged 20 points a game. In his brief batting trial he showed real power, and when he ran to first base he made it in mammoth strides.

Howard was born in Columbus, played baseball and basketball in high school, although his dad, a veteran railroad employee, wouldn't let him play football because he was too skinny.

He played various positions on a team in the Basin Summer League, a circuit in South Dakota and Nebraska, and in 1956 made a tour to Japan with the Ohio State baseball team. His batting average on the trip was an astounding .498, and he hit 12 home runs. He modestly admits that three or four major clubs were after him to sign. His bonus has been estimated to be around $50,000 with which he will "pay a lot of bills," he says.

Howard is not with the Dodger varsity right now. He is being groomed at Vero Beach for his pro career. The guess is that with his eagerness to learn, his size and his strength, he will be heard from before too long, although probably not this year, and maybe not next. But he'll be heard from, just the same.

Hot Stove Class G Loop Re-Organized

The Class G League of the Salem Junior Baseball Leagues was re-organized Sunday when team managers and league officials met in the American Legion home.

Four teams from the National Division were combined with the four remaining teams in the American Division. The American Division had consisted of six teams but two dropped out last season.

The American Division will be comprised of Floding Drugs, last year's champs, Eagles, Gordon Scott Sports, Knights of Columbus, Bricker and Bricker, Brown and Ziegler, National Cleaners and Johnny's Service.

The National Division will be made up of players who played in the Class H League last season. Team sponsors have not yet been announced in this division.

American Division players are from 10 to 12 years old while National Division boys are from 8 to 10.

Additional players for the National Division will be drafted in the spring following tryouts.

Cincinnati Swimmer Sets New AAU Record

KENT, Ohio (AP)—Orrin Nortstrom, 16-year old Cincinnati swimmer, set a new national AAU record in the 200-yard freestyle event for boys of 15 and 16 in the weekend Lake Erie AAU meet.

Nortstrom, who is national junior 440-yard champion, did the 200-yard freestyle in 1:55. Eight district records were set in the meet which wound up Sunday at the Kent State University pool.

WIN TITLE IN EGYPT
CAIRO, Egypt (AP)—Barry McKay of Dayton, Ohio, teamed up with Mrs. Dorothy Head Knobel of Forest Hills, N.Y., Sunday to win the mixed doubles title in Egypt's international tennis championships. They defeated Italy's Giuseppe Merlo and Egypt's Mrs. Menache, 6-0 6-3.

WINS NAIA SWIM MEET
MUNCIE, Ind. (AP)—North Central College won the second annual NAIA swimming championships Saturday night by smashing six national intercollegiate records.

North Central piled up 88 points while Central Michigan finished second with 54½.

Royals' Stokes Is Reported Still In Coma

CINCINNATI (AP) — Maurice Stokes, pro basketball standout for Cincinnati Royals, has been hit hard by what looks like encephalitis.

The 24-year-old athlete, key to the Royals' fortunes this season, is still in a coma today at St. Elizabeth Hospital in nearby Covington, Ky., his condition critical and virtually unchanged.

His physician, Dr. Corwood R. Hunter, said after tests Sunday that the illness may be encephalitis, or a brain inflammation caused by a virus transmitted by insect bites.

But the doctor said, "It may be several days to several weeks before we can confirm this."

Another doctor said Stokes opened his eyes once but "his level of consciousness isn't real deep. It's just as if he were in a deep sleep."

Stokes was stricken last Saturday night after his team lost the first game in the National Basketball Assn. Western Division playoffs.

He had complained of illness on an airport-bound bus from Detroit after the game. On the flight to Cincinnati, he lapsed into unconsciousness and an ambulance met the plane.

The 6-foot-7-inch former star at St. Francis, Pa., College was pro basketball's rookie of the year in 1955-56.

Altenberg, Mulky Capture Track Honors

NAPERVILLE, Ill. (AP) — Ron Altenberg of Cornell (Iowa) and Phil Mulky of Memphis State captured individual honors in the 16th annual Midwest Invitational Track Meet at North Central College Saturday night.

Altenberg won the individual achievement award by scoring 14 points with victories in the 60-yard low hurdles and the 60-yard dash.

Mulky won individual scoring honors with 14 5-6 points by winning the 60-yard high hurdles, the 60-yard low hurdles and placing in three other events.

Central Michigan and Cornell, as expected, captured team titles in the wto-division meet. Central Michigan won the Class I (enrollment over 1,100) championship with 48 5-6 points. Cornell topped the field in Class II (under 1,100) competition with 41½ points.

Wheaton finished second to Central Michigan with 31 1-3 points followed by Bradley 28 5-8, Memphis State 18 5-6, Northern Illinois 18, Mankato State 16, Loyola (Chicago) 16, Chicago 15, Western Illinois 11, Ball State 10 1-3, Illinois Normal 6 1-3, Wisconsin (Milwaukee) 4½.

North Central was second Cornell with 37 points followed by Beloit 34, Duquesne 24, Washburn 21, Lawrence 17, Hanover 15½, Grinnell 15, Carroll 8, Monmouth 7, Elmhurst 3, Bethany 2. Knox and Lake Forest failed to score.

White Sox Defeat Kansas City 8 to 2

FORT MYERS, Fla. (AP)—The Chicago White Sox are getting exactly what they bargained for—good pitching.

As a result the Sox have won six of nine exhibition games and have a three game winning streak alive. In these three games, Sox pitchers have yielded only 16 hits. The Sox defeated Kansas City, 8-2 Sunday.

For the nine-game exhibition swing, the pitchers have a combined earned run average of 2.3.

Mothers Club To Hear Optometrists Tuesday

LEETONIA — The Kindergarten Mothers Club will meet Tuesday evening in the Washingtonville School. A panel of optometrists will talk on the "Care of the Eyes." There will also be a question and answer discussion.

The Ladies Auxiliary of the Eagles will celebrate their 7th anniversary Thursday by going out to dinner. Members planning to attend are asked to meet at the hall at 6 p.m. and are to bring a white elephant gift.

Mrs. Vernon Walters, Herbert

Seachrist and Clark McCowan were prize winners at a card party sponsored by D. Wallace Rebekeah Lodge recently.

The next benefit party will be held Saturday at the Rebekeah Hall.

MRS. RUTH MELLINGER entertained Club Associates Thursday. Mrs. T. L. Sauerwein, Teegarden Rd. is a patient in the South Side Hospital in Youngstown.

Miss Marjorie Rummel of Olmstead spent the weekend with Miss Karen Greenamyre.

D. Wallace Rebekeah Lodge will meet Tuesday evening. Following the business session, members having a birthday party in October, November and December will entertain members having a birthday in January, February and March.

Lunch will be served by the committee.

The Leetonia - Washingtonville Kindergarten Mothers Club will meet Tuesday at 8 p.m. in the Washingtonville School.

A panel discussion on the subject of "Eyes" will be conducted by Dr. Royal Kistly of Warren, Dr. William Jones of Columbiana and Dr. Raymond H. Weaver of Lisbon.

Homeworth

Margaret Wallace was elected president of the Senior Loyal Workers 4-H Club at the reorganizational meeting of the club at the Presbyterian Church Wednesday evening.

Other officers were named Neva Kitzmiller, vice president; Donna Walborn, secretary; Jean Riddle, treasurer; Linda Wyss, news reporter; Sandra Hoffman, recreation leader, and Linda Singlerland, health and safety leader.

Neva Kitzmiller led devotions and Linda Wyss and Neva Kitzmiller were welcomed as new members. The club will meet every other Tuesday at 6:45 p.m.

Donna Walborn gave a demonstration at the March meeting. Mrs. Frank Mead and Mrs. Kenneth Wyss are club advisors.

TROPHIES for perfect attendance were awarded for 1957 to three members of the 4-H Muskeers at a meeting at the home of Patricia McLaughlin Monday evening.

Honored were Gloria Mick, Cy Kasdel and Robert Unkefer, Mrs. Paul Polen read a set of rules for saddle clubs, and the group adopted them as by-laws.

Kay Porter was welcomed as a new member of the club. The next meeting was held at the home of Anna Batsdorf.

Mr. and Mrs. Pat Bennett of Canton called at the home of Mrs. Rena Thomas and family Sunday. W. L. Thomas of Alliance visited his mother, Saturday.

Morgan County Boy Injured by Explosion

ZANESVILLE, Ohio (AP) — A 15-year-old Morgan County boy in satisfactory condition at Goos Saran Hospital here today after brain surgery to remove shrapnel from an exploding metal pipe.

Hospital officials said Andrew Mohler, the patient, was melting lead into small pieces for fishing line sinkers. They said he poured some melted lead into an apparently moist pipe, and the sudden temperature change caused the pipe to explode.

Pieces of tubing punctured his forehead. He suffered a brain injury and fractured skull.

The accident happened Sunday while Andrew, who lives near Malta, was visiting on the farm of his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Andy Baker, near Dale in Washington County.

COLUMBIANA

State Kiwanis Official To Visit Group Tonight

COLUMBIANA — John Baluska of Mingo Junction, Kiwanis lieutenant governor for the district, will pay his official visit to the Columbiana club at its meeting this evening at Heck's Restaurant.

Annual Easter Seal sale campaign sponsored by Rotary Club gets underway tonight when members dispense with a program at their meeting at Valley Golf Club to stuff envelopes with seals and letters for the fund drive. Harry Eberhardt is solicitation chairman.

The club will send out about 3,000 letters to residents of the Columbiana, Leetonia and New Waterford area. Last year's campaign netted about $2,000 but Eberhardt hopes to top that figure since expenditures for crippled children ran more than that during the year.

The Kindergarten Mothers Club meeting date has been advanced from March 26 to Wednesday because of a conflict in use of the school meeting site. Bean bags for the school will be made during the session.

MRS. WILLIAM STAMETS and Mrs. Clarence Koch will be hostesses for the Columbiana Garden Club meeting at 1:30 p.m. Tuesday in the Presbyterian Church.

Mrs. Alfred Barrow, Mrs. Evan Rolter, Mrs. Ralph Luek and Mrs. Olaf Todd will conduct the program.

Combined programs for February and March will be presented at the Sorosis Club meeting Wednesday in the public library. Hostesses will be Mrs. D. W. Bailey and Mrs. Russell Barrow.

The village board of education meets at 8:15 tonight in Dix on school. The budget for 1958 will be discussed. Bids will be opened Friday noon in the superintendent's office for the construction and renovation program scheduled during the summer. The program will be financed with a $225,000 bond issue.

Village council convenes in its second session of the month at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday in the mayor's office at Town Hall.

650 At West Point

Firemen's Minstrel

WEST POINT — Approximately 650 persons attended the West Point Fire Department's annual minstrel show Thursday Friday and Saturday nights at West Point Grange hall.

Standing room only was available Saturday night. The hall also was packed Friday, but attendance was poor Thursday because of adverse weather.

Funds from the show will be used to buy equipment for the volunteer firemen.

Man Plans 2,000-Mile Trek Astride Mule

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — A reckless young Jaycee, bitten by his own scheme, sets out today on a 2,000-mile ride to Los Angeles astride a mule named Kate.

Robert Bradley, 24, a restaurateur and president of the suburban Raleigh-Bartlett Jaycees, will be the state Jaycees' official ambassador to the national convention June 16-19.

The trek will take 87 days, Bradley figures.

LIKE RUBBER—A metal which bends and snaps like rubber is held by Prof. David S. Lieberman, University of Illinois metallurgist. The bar is a crystal of gold-cadmium, whose properties are being investigated by the professor. On display at the university's annual Engineering Open House, the alloy will be featured in an exhibit at the 1958 World's Fair in Brussels, Belgium.
